

Research Assistant: Environmental/Social/Governance (ESG) Metrics

A joint initiative of Yale Law School and the Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies, the Yale Center for Environmental Law and Policy (YCELP) seeks to advance fresh thinking and analytically rigorous approaches to environmental decisionmaking – across disciplines, sectors, and boundaries. The Center is hiring a student research assistant to help with ESG Metrics efforts at least for the fall semester and perhaps the full 2017-2018 academic year.

The position is responsible for several tasks:

- Actively research sustainability – between businesses, the environment and people’s well-being;
- Deliver research on social responsibility and investing efforts for a Fall 2018 research paper with professor Daniel Esty;
- Project support. Attend ESG Metrics meetings and take notes, conduct literature reviews and assist in communication needs;
- Work with Center staff on other duties as assigned.

Requirements: Strong writing, editing, and research skills. Must be a self-starter and an independent worker, with very strong attention to detail. Pay will be at established Yale rates, commensurate with experience.

The position will require about 10 hours per week; hours are generally flexible.

To apply, please send a resume and cover letter to ycelp@yale.edu.

For more information about the Center, visit www.yale.edu/envirocenter or www.epi.yale.edu.